CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

The Solemnity of Greatness

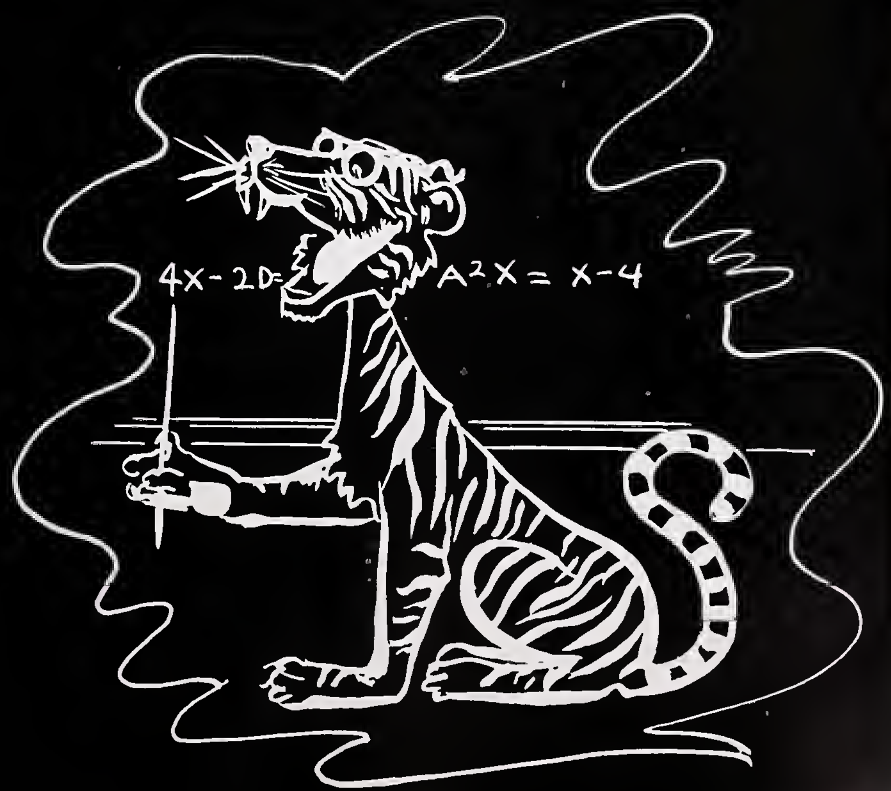
They give you grades;
They mark you absent.
But really if you
Give them half a chance,
They're human!

PROUD WE ARE OF OUR

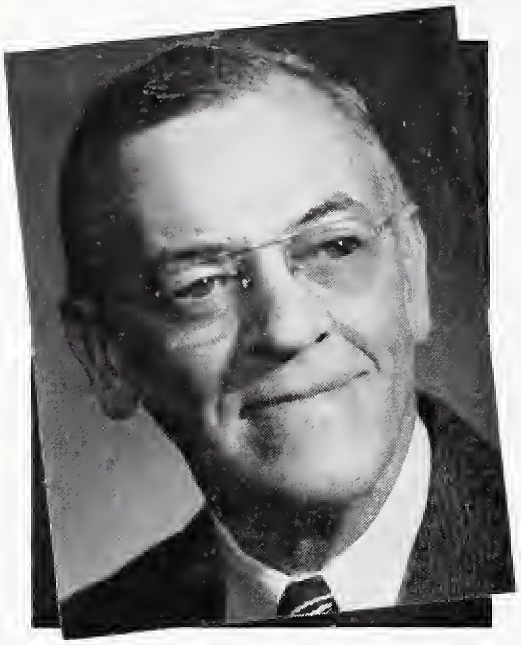
. . . Faculty of 79,

CENTRAL'S HELPFUL faculty comprises teachers whose training, if it were added together, would represent two or three hundred years of college education. That the faculty is not a machine is proved by their understanding guidance and their careful direction of pupils into paths of truth and knowledge, with special regard for the individual. Yes, Central boys and girls are proud of their teachers for their human and democratic qualities.

All Human!



They're for Us! Superintendent,



MERLE J. ABBETT—Superintendent of Schools. Franklin College, B.A.; Columbia U., A.M. Came to Fort Wayne in February, 1932.

OUR superintendent and our principal take pride in Central; we take pride in them. They find joy in the progress and success of every pupil. We justly and proudly say that Central is one of the best governed schools.

J. WILBUR HALEY—Principal of Central High School. Manchester, A.B.; Indiana U., M.S.; Michigan U. Came to Central in 1934, left in 1936, returned in 1948.

Help for Each Pupil

EACH PUPIL is so important at Central High that the faculty offers each a rich counseling experience. Guiding, checking, and advising are all teachers, but especially the guidance director, the visiting teacher, the deans, the coordinator, and the home room sponsors. Guidance continues after graduation in vocational training, trades, and industry. Central wants to help each one.

TOP LEFT: Sharon Willig and Norma Jean Smith consult with Guidance Director Mildred J. Brigham on vocational and college plans in the guidance office. MIDDLE: Mr. J. Henry Chappell, vocational director, Mr. Estal C. Smuts, supervisor and junior coordinator, Mrs. Doris Willis, director of distributive education, and Mr. Charles Feistkorn, coordinator, confer on organization in Mr. Chappell's office. BOTTOM: Dick Pifer, Mark Merriman, and Don McClurg listen to Mr. Myron R. Dinius, local certified public accountant, in a question-and-answer period following a vocational talk by Mr. Dinius.

Service and Smiles

NON-TEACHING adults of Central render services so essential that our school could not operate without them. At the hub of things, the office secretary and clerk handle those hundred and one details each day. The cafeteria force, always ready and cheerful, serve more than 800 daily. We are indebted, too, to the custodian, janitors, matrons, engineers, and all who serve us.

ABOVE: Clerk Mildred Uhlig and Secretary Ruth Uhlig, main office staff, all day toil to the tune of jangling telephone and clattering typewriter. MIDDLE: Mrs. Maude Dalzell, Mrs. Leora Meshberger, Miss Kate Rodenbeck, and Mrs. Ethyle Covert are getting lunch ready for hungry hundreds. BOTTOM: Here are those hungry folks in the cafeteria line, a typical scene every fourth and fifth hours. The snack bar, operated by Miss Rodenbeck and pupil help, also meets the needs of dozens daily.

Yes, it's Central clubs in action.

• • • Active Groups,

MAKING friends is a necessity of life. Central's extra-curricular groups help the pupil to become acquainted with more and more people who may aid him in later life. Club activities bring friends together in an effort to make Central a happier school. During holiday seasons many of our clubs band together to bring aid and enjoyment to underprivileged people in the vicinity. Such organizations are not only a credit to the school and to their members, but are also a credit to the community. Yes, Central's clubs play an important part in making the future citizens of our democracy good citizens.

We Point with Pride

THE CALDRON at mid-century points with pride to the achievements of Central High School and also to the yearbook staff who built this book. Following the theme "We Point with Pride," the staff began picture making in April, 1949, and, working daily, planned, edited, and financed this 1950 Caldron. With pride we note that the Caldron has met its budget and that the Caldron is the only known yearbook to take, process, and enlarge its own pictures. Our All-American rating stands since 1938.

Elaine Glick
EDITOR

TOP: Editor Brown, who began her Caldron career as a freshman, rose to the top of the staff with an understanding of all phases of book production. Areline is an authority also on how to plan and conduct a Central dance. Her spirit for work will be reflected in staffs to come.

CIRCLE: A junior with a senior position is Elaine Meyer, heading the business and office staff of the Caldron. Under her direction, the sales staff exceeded the goal of 1400 sales, getting 1419. Elaine knows purchasing, fund raising, and office management. The 1950 budget calls for $6700.

BELOW: First semester editor, Elaine Glick was responsible for arrangement of the book and many clever ideas in layout. Her past experience as an art editor helped qualify her for original book planning. Her record shows three years on the Caldron.

They Create Beauty in Our Halls

THE ART Club of Central High is proud of its school and its purpose, which is to beautify the halls, and arouse the artistic interest of all students. The annual projects of the club which enable it to fulfill its purpose are decorating the halls at Christmas, the yearly dance, which is one of the most beautiful, and the trip to Chicago, to visit art institutes and studios.

TOP LEFT: Art Club members cluster around the mikes to present their Christmas radio program. In the foreground are the dolls donated for baskets by wives of men faculty members. They Combine Business, Pleasure

DEBS CLUB, organized in 1948, is for Diligent Efficient Business Students. Its adviser is Miss Georgia Heal. Central is proud of its DEBS Club. Business students are spurred on to higher achievements in the business world, because they have a chance to get together and discuss the problems and observe activities of the business world through such an organization. Too, they learn to conduct business in a pleasant manner.

Girls March and Twirl at Games

MEMBERS of Twirlers and Drum Corps feel it is an honor to belong to that organization. Their adviser is Mrs. Edna Chester. The club furnishes entertainment at games and adds color to all sports activities. It has meetings twice a week, Tuesdays for business matters and Thursdays for practice sessions. The girls do much to promote school spirit and add zest to school programs. The Majorette's uniform is white

They Speak, Plan for All Central

THE ONLY club at Central representing the entire student body so thoroughly is the Student Council. This club might be said to be the student governing body of the school. During this term has polished and rearranged the trophies, maintained an ushering committee, combined its efforts with Red Cross Club to give a Merry Christmas to needy families. These are only some of the school-minded projects of Student Council. Mr. Richardson advises.

They Win Honors Speaking, Giving

SPEECH HONORS come to Central in many forms through the efforts of the speech department. Dozens of young speakers enter the city, regional, state, and national contests, and students from other cities come here for contests. In every contest, our speakers consistently place first or near the top. Social activities of the department were the speech picnic, "Charleston Capers," the speech dance, March 31,

They Delve Into Their Interests

THE DELVERS Club, organized in 1935 by Miss Ruth Brown, is an outstanding club of Central High School. Each semester the Delvers select a new theme which they vow to carry out. Freshman and sophomore girls are eligible for the club if they maintain a "B" average in English. Every May a tea is held for the Mothers in order that they, too, may become acquainted with this club.

They Appreciate Gifts of Nature

ONE OF Central's most interesting clubs, Nature Club, concerns observation of nature. A trip is taken annually in the spring to a state park or museum of natural science. The meetings are planned by a committee selected by the officers and the adviser, Miss Iva Spangler. On February 24 of this year, Nature Club sponsored a dance which was entitled "Caribbean Cruise." Membership is open to all students having taken biology.

TOP LEFT: Evelyn Yancheff, Meredith Snyder, Marjorie Gerdom, Norma Smith, and Marc Lansky observe the different shapes of leaves. They Find Excitement in History

ANTHONY WAYNE Club has proved itself to be one of Central's most active and interesting groups. The club, a member of Junior Historical Society of Indiana, takes an annual bus trip to Washington, D. C. during the spring vacation and travels to area spots of historical interest during the teachers' convention in the fall. The meetings every other week stimulate and supplement the study of history. Mr. Clifford Richards is the teacher in charge.

SOMETHING'S "popping" all the time in the Spotlight year. Both in the routine week and the social program, Spotlight boys and girls find lots to do, many friends to make, and honors to gain. Staff meetings, major and minor, and agent meetings, too, stimulate efforts toward a successfully met budget and a brightly published newspaper. Almost entirely a volunteer organization, members find their rewards in staff commendations and promotions, Press Club membership, sweater awards, and "fun" events. Social events are the Franklin College and Butler University trips, fall and spring, the mid-year party, the annual banquet, and the spring picnic—plus the opening dance of the year. No group in school has more work to do, and no group has more fun.

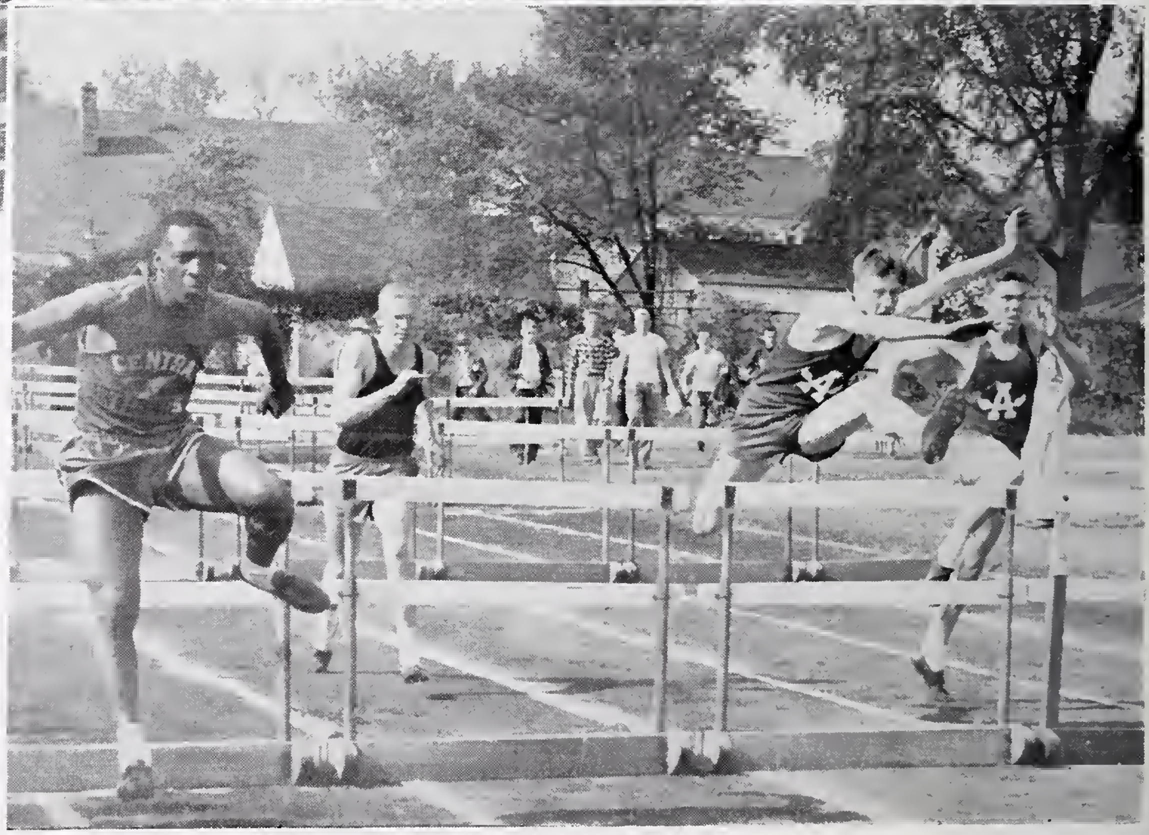
SPORTS is a by-word at Central. Our daily routine revolves around sports, for without sports Central wouldn't be Central! There is a wide variety of sports here at Central — football, basketball, and track. Every boy and girl is given an opportunity to participate in sports events. The gym and swimming classes teach students to like and to take part in sports. This way we learn sportsmanship. In all our games a competitive spirit prevails. Central is proud to take part in sports, but prouder still of her sportsmen and sportswomen she produces every season.

Lose or Win!

49'ers Roar to Victory



WITH basketball and football seasons in the annals of history, the '49 Blue Boys turned to track. During seasonal competition the Tigers chalked up a good one on South Side by defeating the Archer adversaries on their own field. But when it came to City Championship, North Side took top honors. But the story changed in the State Championship meet. Central placed fourth while North came in fifth. Sam Sims placed first in hurdling and several seconds were won by Jim Ford and Sims.

TOP: Four 1949 track stars back this year are, corner of page: Sam Sims, first at state meet in hurdling. Bob Rowe, fourth in the mile at state. Clayton Chambers, member half-mile relay team that set a city record of 1:30.4, and fifth at state. Ben Hobbs, 440 man, also member of the relay team, as were Sims and Sonny Ford.

CENTER: Ford dashes home to win first in the 100-yard dash. BELOW: Sims makes the fourth hurdle in the '49 sectional meet, setting a new record of 15 seconds flat.

Sports for All

WE POINT with pride to our all-inclusive physical education program for all boys, big or little, fast or slow. A well developed gym schedule calls for sports fundamentals, calisthenics, boxing, wrestling, rope climbing, running, swimming, field events, and physical fitness tests.

ALL BOYS have an equal opportunity to participate in any of the sports that are being taught here. The boys that do not get into the regular basketball team can become members of intramural teams which have their daily rivalries in the gym. After many competitive games, a new champion is crowned.

Win All but One

FOOTBALL

THE 1949-1950 football season turned out to be one of Central's most successful seasons, as the husky gridiron players won eight of their nine regular games. Our high-flying Tigers did not lose a single game to any Indiana team, but they ran into a tough block when they came up against a new foe, Lima Central of Ohio. Lima managed to turn in a 34-25 decision over the badly battered, but still fighting, Bengals. The fleet-footed backs of the Tigers turned in some mighty interesting victories when they came up from under and upset some pretty tough teams. But as usual Central spurted ahead in the last remaining minutes of the games to show that our fighting Tigers never say "die." The Bengals turned in five successful city games, winning the City Crown. They won two from Central Catholic and one apiece from North Side, South Side, and Concordia. The Bengals piled up a total of 223 points in nine games, while their opponents' total reached only 104 points. The reason behind this high scoring was the all around stamina of the backs and of the front line.

TOP: Ben Hobbs tackles an Irishman, in the first game with Central Catholic, while Norm Sims, 39, prepares to come to his aid. Central won 24-12.

MIDDLE: Sam Sims, 40, runs for some yardage as a South Sider vainly tries to stop him. John Woznick, 29, and Jim Taylor, 30, come to his aid. The Bengals captured the city title with this win, posting a win of 19-14.

BOTTOM: Sam Sims goes through for a touchdown as Duke Meyer, 23, Jim Taylor, 30, and Chuck Brown get caught in a tangle of flying arms, legs, and shoulder pads. The Tigers defeated the Redskins in this game by a score of 19-18.

Tigers Fight!

WITH a loss to start the season off, the Tigers could not get rolling right and lost games as fast as they won them. They had a lot of trouble in city competition, as they could pile up only three wins in seven games. They lost their four city games to South Side and North Side, with each winning two. South Side had quite a bit of trouble winning the second game from the Bengals, as they had to go in to an overtime to squeeze out a 51-47 victory.

When sectionals rolled around the Blue were not given a chance to win by some sports writers and spectators. The Tigers proved how wrong they were by posting wins over the county champs and the City Champs, South Side, who had won all of the six starts in the city tourney, before falling prey to North Side in the last game of the evening. The team was evenly balanced with all working splendidly together and no one man stood out as an individual star. The record at the end of the '49-'50 playing season for the Bengals was one of 11 wins and 13 losses.

PROUD WE ARE OF

. . . A Busy, Lively,

EVERY DAY for the Centralite is an eventful day. However, there are some events that will always be cherished. Among these are Recognition Day to honor deserving students, Letter Day, and Achievement Day. Central is justly proud of her pep sessions, especially the Valentine Pep Session, Caldron Pep Session, and the Booster Rally. We boast of giving some of the most popular dances in the city. Our Junior Prom, Senior Commencement Dance, and the Poor Man's Prom are always to be remembered. Yes, we lift our heads in pride at the mention or the memory of any event at Central!

Eventful Year

"Apple Blossom Time"

"APPLE BLOSSOM TIME," the '49 Junior Prom, given May 14, 1949, was a beautiful affair of which the whole school can be proud. Music was afforded by Woody Herman's Orchestra. Decorations were lovely, carried in a motif in accordance with the name. The queen's throne was a huge open apple blossom. This prom will long be remembered as one of the most beautiful ever presented.

Booster Girls

OUR SENIOR Booster girls on February 10 presented the traditional Valentine Pep Session to honor basketball boys. Dispensing with rhymes and poems, the girls staged a hilarious affair, carried out as if in a radio station, "IYQ."

Honor Athletes

OUR JUNIOR Boosters began tradition this year by presenting the Booster Rally, "Farmyard Follies," to honor football boys with candy and original rhymes. The effect of a farmyard was made more real by the presence of a black sheep, a white lamb, and a red pig.

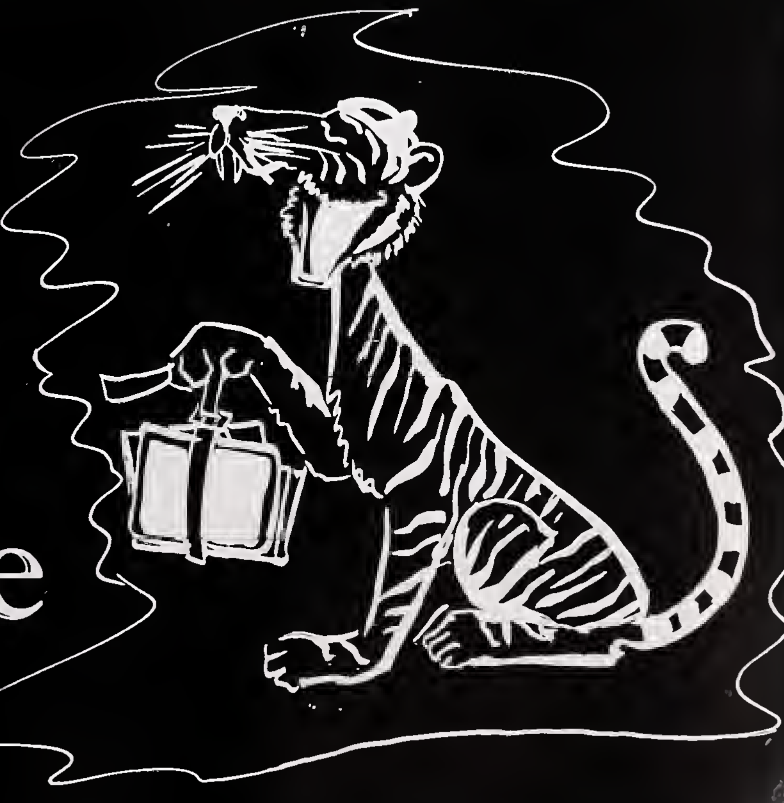
. . . A Curriculum,

TO HAVE a successful democracy, you must have cooperation between leaders and followers. In the classrooms of Central, you can find the cooperation between teacher and student that is comparable to that of a government and its people. Truly, Central could be considered a government. Each classroom is a state, a democracy with its own regulations under the central regulatory system. But that isn't as far as it goes. Central's classrooms are seats of learning, of interest, of cooperation, and of initiative. Each student is a citizen of that classroom, and profits by its principles.

Rich and Wide



Keeping Safe and Well

THE MAIN purpose of health and safety instruction is to give the student a wealth of helpful information pertaining to the structure and functions of the different parts of the human body and to acquaint him with the needs of the body to keep it healthy. It is hoped this course will help the student in the future to keep his body safe and sound.

Jack Stricat examines a slide in biology class while Juanita Roembke takes notes on his findings.

John Fey, Audrey Bradfield and Pat Wagner explain the positions and functions of the organs of the human body to Mr. Stech's health class.

Applying Sciences

OUR COOKING classes make a distinct contribution in preparing girls for careers in the home. The course teaches how to prepare well-balanced meals at a nominal cost.

IN CHEMISTRY classes our pupils benefit from modern equipment and methods in seeking the truth in science. In chemistry young scientists gather such knowledge as will prepare them for professional careers in medicine or science.

Charlotte Black, Marylin Miller and Ann Richards perform various culinary tasks in cooking class.

George Jacobs, Carol Gephart, and Skippy Bromelmeier observe chemical changes in substances in chemistry class.

Learning Shop

THROUGH THE various shops, such as wood, machine and auto, at Central, a student receives a vast and valuable supply of instructions and information which enable him to hold the more specialized jobs offered by the various factories in Fort Wayne and elsewhere. Central's shop courses feature the most advanced techniques and equipment in northeastern Indiana.

Gene Schlickman, Ted Deal, and Pat Leon thread a chuck in machine shop.

Steve Libbing, Don Wilkins, Frank Hicks, and Sam Sims learn various tricks of trade in woodshop.

Crafts and Skills

THE VALUE of Central's shop courses is proved by the good number enrolled in various branches. For example, the teachers of auto, Mr. Hemphill, Mr. Guenther, and Mr. Surber, have 223 pupils. Mr. Welbaum, head of the cabinet pattern department, teaches 92. Mr. Shackelford, machine and industrial machine department head, has 55 boys enrolled. Woodshop, taught by Mr. Dailey, has a total of 151. Central also has many boys interested in welding, instructed by Mr. Guenther, and electricity, taught by Mr. Wilson.

Jim Andrews, Joe Marks and Harold Daniel check a motor in electricity shop.

Jack Graback and Jim Bolenbaugh repair a fender in welding shop.

Driving with Care

IN 1948, Central added an exceptionally modern topic to its curriculum—a driving course. In learning to drive correctly, we learn that the life we save may be our own. The driving course is supplemented by competent drivers' tests, a '49 Ford with dual controls for safe teaching, and other such modern equipment. Yes, we are rightly proud of our driver-training classes.

CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL
DRIVER TRAINING CAR

Students of the driving course gather around the school driver training car.

Walt Miller runs the machine to measure depth perception as the second hour driving class watches.

Planning Our Homes

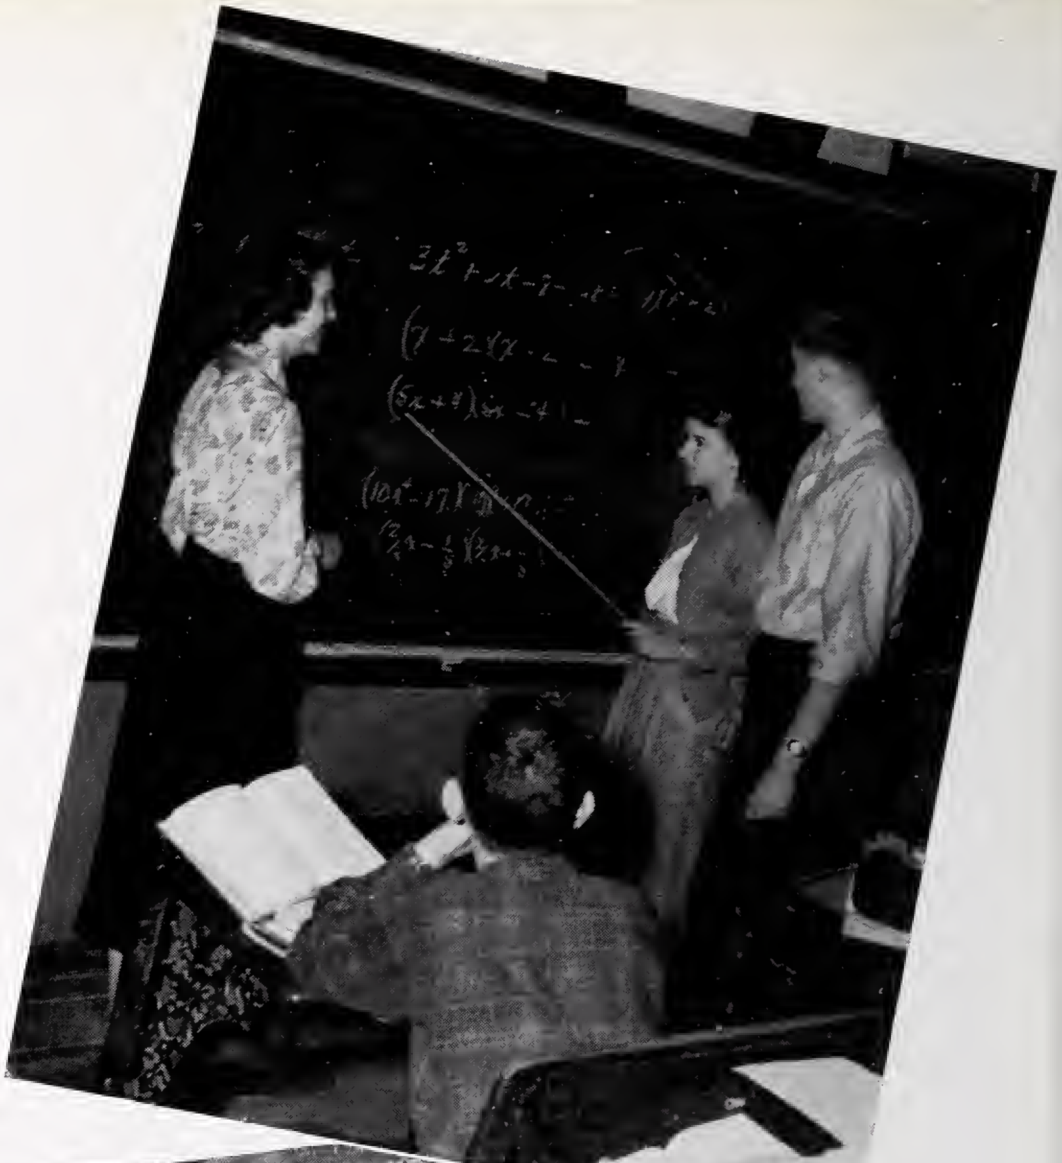
CENTRAL is proud of its classes in home economics. Girls learn all the aspects of modern homemaking. For example, the family relations class teaches parents of tomorrow how to rear their families properly and how to manage their homes efficiently. The cooking classes prosper by the fact that here we have one of the best equipped kitchens in Indiana high schools. The cooking and sewing classes have an apartment in which the girls may get practical experience in modern housekeeping techniques.

Lois Morrison, Leola Jinks, Grace Ragon, and June Pflueger take pride in their sewing skill.

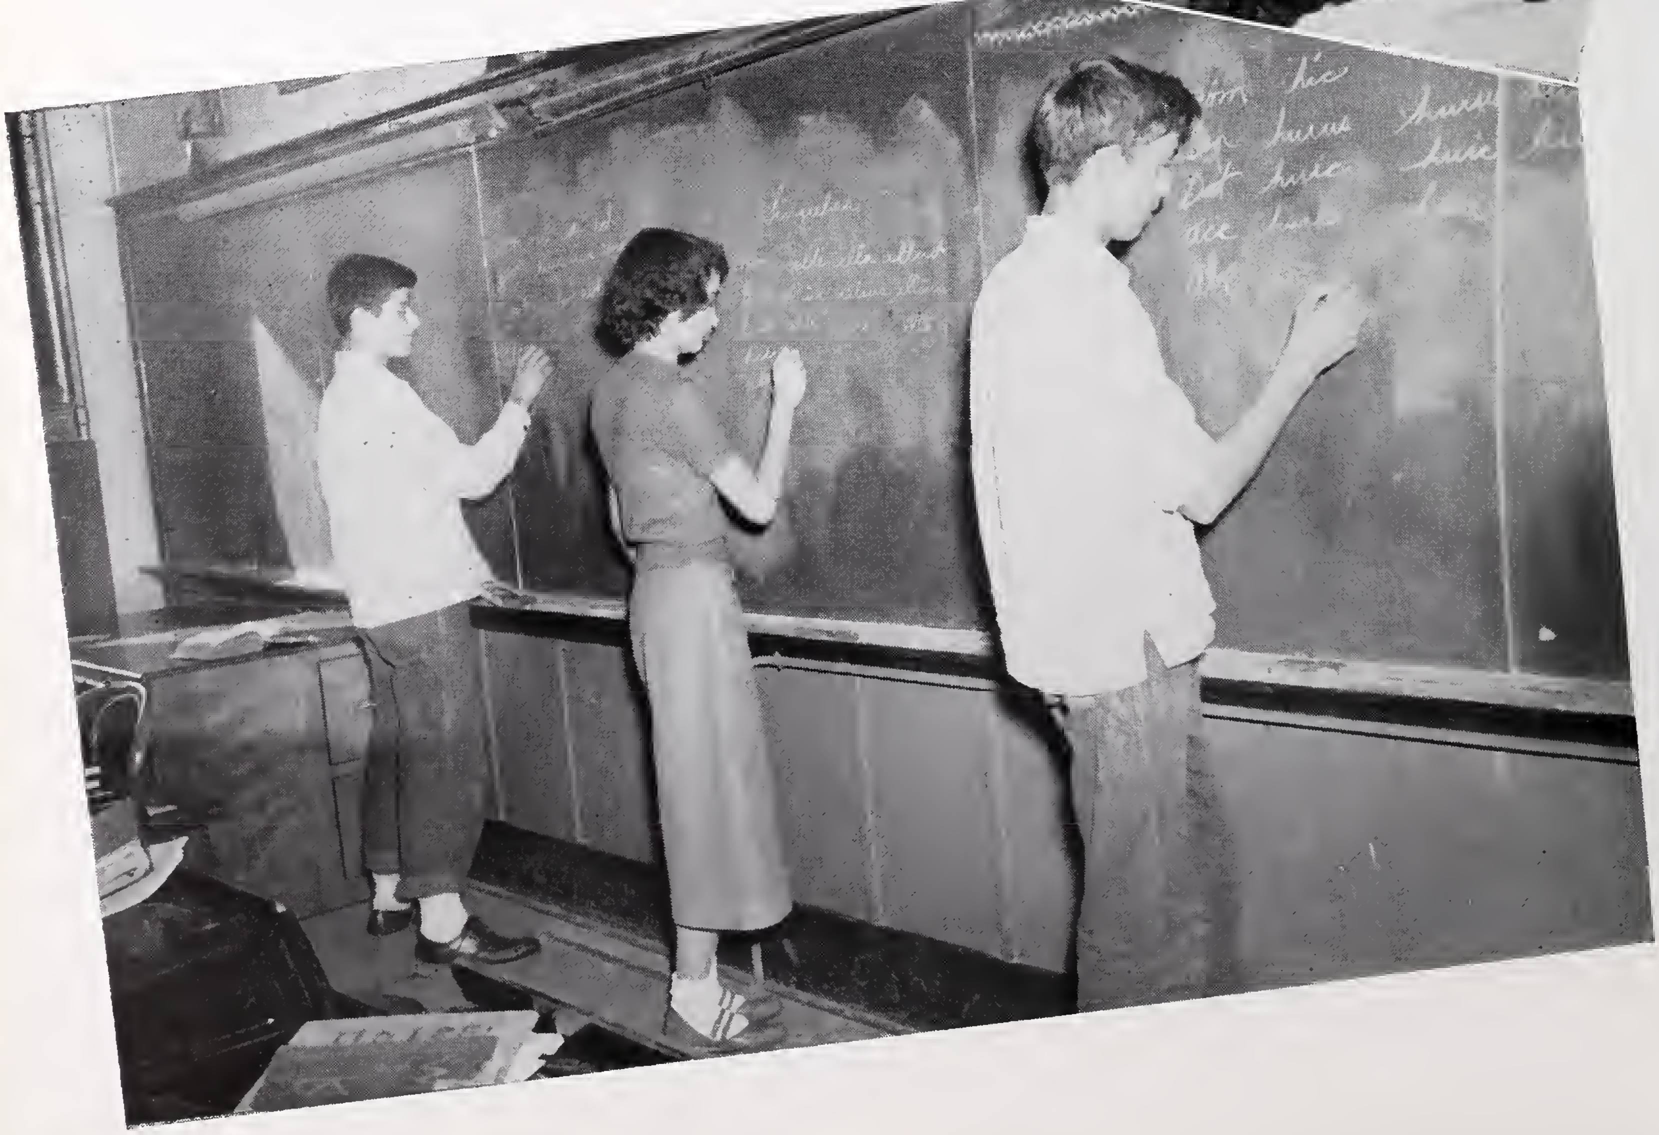
Emily Fischer conducts proceedings as these girls discuss budget planning in family relations class.

Finding Pleasure in Latin, Math

CENTRAL STUDENTS have reason to be proud of their math and Latin departments. Courses in algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, solid geometry, college algebra, and trigonometry are offered. Every year some of our students go to the top in the state math contests. Latin students may take up such Roman sages as Virgil, Caesar, and Cicero. Many of the Latin students enter the local Latin contest and go on to place in the state contest.



Marilyn Findley explains an algebraic equation while Charlotte Olson, David Stager and John Glass offer criticisms.



John Richards, Sandra Lee, and Andy Rasbury decline Latin pronouns.

Gaining Skills in Jobs

CENTRAL offers a wider selection in drawing than most other high schools offer. The classes numbered 420 boys this year.

DURING the second semester this year there were about 800 boys and girls enrolled in the different phases of business training. There are always at least 80 or 90 students placed in positions in the business world directly after graduation.

TRAINING for future positions are Max Conner, Bob Linn and Dick Hobeck. They are inking in an architectural drawing.

These girls in comptometry class find figuring is fun with mathematical machines.

Growing in Culture

WE AT CENTRAL are blessed with having in our curriculum cultural subjects affording life-long values—Latin and art. Our art department is so organized that the classes gain a profound knowledge of one of the truly finer aspects of life. In the Latin course, pupils learn how those ancient Romans lived whose social order, tongue, and ideals have distinct bearing on our own.

Beauford Williams and Elaine Glick paint murals on shop windows while competing in a city art contest.

Mrs. Margaret MacKay's Latin class fights the Gallic Wars with Julius Caesar.

Learning to Live

THE SOCIAL science field at Central is a very broad one. For instance, our economics classes are well educated in practical buying for the future. Economics, the study of how people buy, sell, and budget their goods and money, is an art necessary to all.

SPEECH CLASSES, led by Mr. McFadden, offer to students training in impromptu, extemp, declamation, oratory, and other arts of public speaking. Central students always rank among the top few in any speech contest they enter.

Practice Teacher Mr. Harold Smith explains to Becky Brunson a statistics graph in economics.

Jim Clements, Shirley Case, and Sharon Dougherty rehearse for a radio program given over WGL in Mr. McFadden's sixth hour speech class.

We leave our mark on Central's

We come to learn, live, work, have

We're the Centralites.

PROUD WE ARE OF

. . . A Democratic

PLAYING ball at Central is important—not just on Herb Banet's team, but in the classroom and at club meetings as well. Be they freshmen or seniors, Centralites have learned the value of "team work." Proof of the allegiance shown by this student body lies in the successful Central dances, speech meets, and sports tourneys. Fair play has always been stressed here. By learning the value of playing fair, Centralites have gained many loyal friends. Although each individual has his own goals in life to meet, Centralites are proud to live up to the motto—"E Pluribus Unum."

Mid-Century Seniors

CENTRAL'S mid-century class takes pride, like all previous classes, in Central—and in themselves, for their four-year attainments. Highlighting their senior year were the senior play, Nov. 18-19; the annual banquet, Jan. 19; baccalaureate, June 4; commencement, June 8; and the senior dance, the night of Commencement Day. This year 302 wore caps and gowns. Miss Helen Keegan and Mr. Leland Johnson advised the class of 1950, both junior and senior years.

These folks take pride in steering the Senior Class. They are Miss Keegan and Mr. Johnson, advisers; Robert Linn, president; Doris Briner, secretary; and Marion Ayers, vice-president.

Members of Senior Congress discuss plans for the coming year. They are Jack Stricat, Bob Linn, Don Jeffries, Bob Klopfenstein, Mary Drew, Lois Hanes, Carol Mays, Sharron Lash, Bonnie Leitch, Marion Ayers, Miss Keegan, Mr. Johnson, Chuck Crawford, and Doris Briner.

They make the freshmen quake with fear,
They lend sophomores a helping hand,
And make juniors green with envy.
For they're Central's SENIORS,
Our pride and joy!

PROUD WE ARE OF

. . . Our Seniors

WE POINT with pride to those who have ended their long walk through Central's portals—the graduating class of 1950. As they close the door behind them, they remember all their friends, teachers, events, clubs, and classes. They will begin their life's work. Some will go on to institutions of higher learning, while others will begin immediately to realize their ambitions. Success, recognition—those will be the by-words of our class of '50. But, from past experience, we know many will go on to bring honor to Central. Yes, we are sad because of their leaving, but in that sadness, we are proud.

Dear Susie—
Say gal, I've really thought a lot of you. You really are tops. I hope you get what you really deserve out of life and it should be the best. Don't ever forget the good times we've had – It's been a wonderful four years and I hate to see it go. I know we'll see each other later so till then
Love you always
